Fund Manager Comment

As per World Bank,

“Energy prices retreated 6.4% in November, the largest monthly decline since April 2020. Prices, however, remain 110% higher than one year earlier. Non-energy prices fell 0.2%. Prices were mixed for key subgroups: agriculture commodities rose 1.3% and fertilizers soared 19.2%. Precious metals also rose (2.6%), but metals and minerals tumbled 9.1%.”

“Commodity prices continued their recovery in the first quarter of 2021 and are expected to remain close to current levels throughout the year, lifted by the global economic rebound and improved growth prospects. However, the outlook is heavily dependent on progress in containing the COVID-19 pandemic as well as policy support measures in advanced economies and production decisions in major commodity producers.

Energy prices are expected to average more than one-third higher this year than in 2020, with oil averaging $56 a barrel. Metal prices are expected to climb 30 percent; and agricultural prices are forecast to rise almost 14 percent. Almost all commodity prices are now above pre-pandemic levels, driven by the upsurge in economic activity, as well as some specific supply factors, particularly for oil, copper, and some food commodities.”
